Cloud Services

Working, wherever you are

Employ cloud services to improve your work-life balance. Home, office or the airport lounge, cloud services make you more effective and remove constraints on your performance.

Goodbye Onsite Infrastructure

With an organisational move to cloud services, you remove the need for expensive onsite server infrastructure. With cloud hosted services, infrastructure becomes someone else's issue. That 'someone else' are global suppliers who maintain and upgrade devices across their global data centres to retain market advantage. It's clever stuff, you get access to the latest infrastructure for a manageable monthly or annual outlay.

Disaster Proof

With no central point of failure Cloud Services can bring great stability to your organisation. As long as you have access to an internet connection you have access to your data and the ability to run your business. This allows for a fluid workforce who can work from home, from the office or from the road – and if something unfortunate happens, a pipe breaks and floods HQ, work can continue, at least in some form, until things are back to normal.

Data Security

Digital Dexterity works with you to make sure your data is stored and transported securely and within government regulations. For many organisations it is important for data to be kept onshore and Digital Dexterity default to using Australian data centres.

Service Management

Working with our global partners, Digital Dexterity offer 24hr service monitoring to minimise downtime. Our regular security audits provide assurance that your data is protected and secure.
